

Philippines aggreko south east europe

What does Aggreko do?

Aggreko is also a very international business, and working with people from around the world is an exciting way to develop myself both personally and professionally. I oversee the operations and maintenance of the high voltage and extra-high voltage equipment at one of our major power plants in the Philippines.

Does Aggreko have a safety culture?

Aggreko is a company that values safety above all else. The company is very keen on instilling a safety culture among its employees and providing a safe working environment for everyone. That's so important for me, given that I'm working with high voltages. Safety is second nature for us.

How can Aggreko help you grow your career?
