Why are new energy vehicles built?

The purpose of building new energy vehicles is to reduce energy and emissions. The motor housing is an important part of a new energy vehicle motor, and building it to reduce weight is also essential.

Why do new energy vehicles need a motor enclosure?

To reduce weight and increase cooling in new energy vehicles, we make use of custom aluminum alloys to create a lighter and more energy efficient motor enclosure (motor housing). The purpose of building new energy vehicles is to reduce energy and emissions.
